OSWALD COMPANY EXPANDING AND REBRANDING

CINCINNATI, OHIO - October 1, 2009 - Commercial development and construction firm Oswald Company, Inc. has announced the opening of a new office in Raleigh, North Carolina and the rebranding of the firm's identity. Because of the firm's commitment to their clients, Oswald has enjoyed continual growth since its founding in 1991. They have broadened their menu of services to better serve the needs of their clients.

The new office in Raleigh, North Carolina is headed by Principal and General Counsel Judson Oswald, who brings a strong legal background and experience in corporate and project finance to the firm. Establishing a physical office in the Southeast is part of Oswald's strategic plan to leverage the strength of Oswald in Cincinnati in order to diversify its client base and expand its service offerings in the South. Oswald has been actively doing business in the Raleigh market since 2006 and the opening of a physical office further solidifies its commitment to this region.

In addition to the new office, Oswald rebranded the firm's corporate identity. The new Oswald brand showcases its menu of services including integrated real estate development, design-build and construction services. The new brand reflects the benefits Oswald offers its clients with a progressive, strong logo that visually represents the company's solid development and construction foundation.

"With our new brand identity, new Raleigh office, and broad range of services, Oswald is well positioned to succeed in this tough environment. Raleigh is one of the fastest growing metropolitan areas, has a highly educated workforce, and has a temperate climate. Leveraging our services into a new, growing geographic area helps provides sustainability for the company," said President and CEO Ken Oswald, the company's founder.
