

SPCA

Addition & Renovation

Architect: GBBN & GRA+D Architects

Duration: 10 Months

Having outgrown their Cincinnati headquarters, SPCA enlisted Oswald Company to renovate and build an addition onto a former church building. The new humane center and shelter, totalling 40,000 SF, includes: a new and expanded veterinary clinic; a regional humane education training center; a behavior and dog training center; space for pet education programs; state-of-the-art kennels; and space for other animals.

“Without having any prior experience in a major construction project I entered our project with Oswald as a novice and came out a well-informed, satisfied building owner. The Oswald staff and the subcontractors did their work with the diligence that was necessary and at the same time enjoyed building more than a structure, but a new home for SPCA Cincinnati.”
